How to change your Dialup Number in Windows XP

1. Click on Start

2. Click on Control Panel

3. Double click on the "Network Connections" Icon (if your in category view click on switch to classic view)

4. Inside of Network Connections you will see a connection to "Brightnet" or "bnin.net". Click your RIGHT mouse button on the "Brightnet" (or "bnin.net") icon - VERY IMPORTANT: Use the Right button, not the left button. Click once only, do not double-click. Select the "Properties" option from the pop-up menu that appears. If you do not see a pop-up menu with a properties option, you have double-clicked the icon. Try again using the right mouse button.

5. Replace the number shown with the new access number, and turn off the "Use dialing rules" option if it is selected. Click the "OK" button and close the "Network Connections" screen. You should now be ready to connect to the internet as usual. You have now completed this procedure.
